Building a Culture of Innovation and Productivity

An Executive Roundtable Forum

There is an abundance of managers, supervisors and followers but few leaders in Liberia and around the world.

The Executive Roundtable Forum is designed to tap into the brain trust working in Liberia to understand the leadership gaps of the local talent pool. Working together with these executives, LinX will facilitate this Forum as a means for collaboration, communication and coordination to promote priority areas for building a culture of innovation and productivity through leadership in Liberia.

“Leaders are ordinary people who accept or are placed under extraordinary circumstances that bring forth their latent potential, producing a character that inspires the confidence and trust of others.” —Myles Munroe

Leaders require critical thinking skills. They need to master the complexity of solving multi-dimensional problems and they must understand how to prioritize.
